1 AUGUST, 2024

Get ready for a night of unparalleled mixed martial arts excitement as the World Sports Betting Arena roars to life on Thursday night, August 8th, with EFC 116! This high-octane event is set to deliver a spectacle that will keep fight fans on the edge of their seats, with 24 fierce competitors ready to make their mark inside the hexagon.

The electrifying main event is set to be a middleweight clash of the titans as Luke "The Young Gun" Michael faces oQ against Jaco Du Plessis for the vacant middleweight belt. Michael, a fighter renowned for his relentless drive and unyielding spirit, is on a mission to reclaim the championship he lost at EFC 112. This bout represents a crucial opportunity for Michael to reassert his dominance and demonstrate that he is more formidable than ever. But standing in his way is Jaco Du Plessis, an undefeated obstacle who promises to make this clash one for the history books. One of the main training partner of UFC Middleweight Champion and EFC Legend, Dricus du Plessis, this battle of skill, strategy, and sheer willpower could very well redefine the 185lb landscape!

News broke earlier today that Sylvester Chipfumbu has pulled out of his fight against Jean-Jacques Lubaya due to injury. The spotlight now shifts to Zambian sensation Ken Sekeletu, who is undefeated in the EFC and looking to prove that his skills and adaptability are second to none as he now squares oQ against Jean-Jacques Lubaya, a powerhouse from the DRC. Lubaya, ever the opportunist, will be keen to capitalise on any potential missteps from Sekeletu, making this an intriguing encounter that could also give rise to a new contender to the title held by current champion Igeu Kabesa.

The preliminary fights are equally compelling, featuring the highly-anticipated debut of Dominators Den's Tico van der Berg in the light heavyweight division. Van der Berg is set to clash with Andile Madlala, a promising fighter from notorious East Coast outfit GBH, who made his debut at EFC 112. This matchup not only oQers a first look at van der Berg's potential but also presents Madlala with a chance to build on his experience. Expect a thrilling contest as both fighters vie for a pivotal victory early in their careers.

EFC 116 is shaping up to be a night where every punch, kick, and submission could alter the trajectory of a fighter's career and their respective divisions. Whether you're a die-hard fan or new to the thrilling world of MMA, this is an event you simply cannot miss. Circle your calendars, grab your tickets, and prepare for a night of heart-pounding action and unforgettable moments in the heart of Johannesburg!

EFC 116 is presented by World Sports Betting and takes place on Thursday, 8 August 2024, live from the World Sports Betting Arena in JHB, South Africa.
